

Work smarter. Not harder. Smart privacy solutions.

Privacy Foxes' experts have been consulting in the area of personal data protection years before the entry of GDPR. This experience and knowledge of the development of the current requirements gives us confidentiality to advise on ambiguous issues and ability to provide practical solutions. They not only account for the market practice and approach of the public authorities but also meet business expectations in the first place.

Our scope of work includes:

- verifying the compliance obligation and scope of application of GDPR in current operations,
- comprehensive legal audits of the applied solutions, including post-implementation audits and verification of already implemented measures,
- coordinating the implementation of GDPR within a capital group or as part of a project collaboration between individual departments in the company,
- preparation of the necessary documentation both within the corporation and in external relations,
- negotiations with contractors (e.g. entrusting agreements),
- conducting a Data Protection Impact Assessment (DPIA),
- contact with the appropriate office for personal data protection,
- handling queries of people whose data is processed in the enterprise,
- remote training, including the preparation of training materials and e-learning,
- performing the function of a Data Protection Officer (DPO).

We also have a strong legal background (please visit LBPLEGAL.COM to meet our law firm) as well as IT security partners to provide you with complex service if needed.
